Book Description

This is the second edition, published in December 2016. It provides tours of World War II monuments, museums, and battlegrounds throughout Italy. These tours begin in Sicily, where the Allies landed in 1943, and from there proceed to southern, central, and northern Italy, where German forces surrendered in 1945. The book also contains fascinating excerpts from the journal of Don Wafu, an American POW who spent months in Italian prison camps during the war. A review of the second edition is printed below (reviews prior to December 2016 pertain to the first edition, which was similar in format but did not cover southern Italy).
